African-American influence can be found at the core of American life, from science and academia, to music and arts. When you explore the journey of African-American history, you find stories of strength, resilience, and achievement. In every community, these stories are foundational to building shared values, which inspire today’s youth to become tomorrow’s leaders.

The 306: African-American History digital course brings to life a number of the important leaders and events whose impact changed the fabric of American life. The course covers four key eras and allows students to take control of their journey as they travel at their own pace.

Course Highlights

- Interactive timeline covering American history from the colonial period through the present, with course topics mapped to other important events
- Engaging simulations that help students interact with the concepts, texts, themes, and events of African-American history through scaffolded activities and content
- In-depth teacher assessment tools for gauging and tracking student learning and progress
- Supplemental materials, including curriculum guides and lesson plans

Course Topics

- Geographic, political and economic factors that contributed to the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade
- The Underground Railroad, and Harriet Tubman’s role as a conductor leading other slaves to freedom
- Political and social issues from the Reconstruction Period through the life and career of Hiram Revels, the first African-American member of the US Senate
- The artistic, cultural, and political legacy of the Harlem Renaissance

Total Time: 2.5 hours
Subject Fit: Social Studies or ELA
Standards Alignment: Common Core Math, State Academic Math and Science Standards
Learning Activity Highlights

A Journey Through The Underground Railroad -
The Underground Railroad was instrumental in helping slaves escape to freedom. In this module, students are introduced to the moments and familiar figures in history whose courageous actions transformed Antebellum Period.

Reliving the Harlem Renaissance - The texture of American art, music, and culture was undeniably affected by the creative explosion known as the Harlem Renaissance. Through an interactive map, students explore the sights, sounds, and figures that turned a New York City neighborhood into an American movement.

Reflecting on Lessons Learned - As a capstone project for the course, students are encouraged to delve deeper into the themes of African-American history by constructing a guided essay. From outline to conclusion, the course walks students through the construction and revision of a thoughtful, persuasive essay.

<tr>
<td>Slavery in the United States</td>
<td>Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade</td>
<td>Slavery remains America’s original sin—the embodied contradiction to its promise for equality and universal freedom. In this module, students learn about the history of this period, as well as the key figures and counterforces that were critical in its resistance.</td>
<td>“Students will be able to…” Analyze the power dynamics between European merchants, African tribal leaders, and enslaved Africans during the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade. Describe the basic elements of “triangular economics” and the flow of human laborers, raw materials, and finished goods between Europe, Africa, and the Americas. Classify the goals and key initiatives of the Abolitionist movement.</td>

<tr>
<td>Emancipation and Reconstruction</td>
<td>Frederick Douglass</td>
<td>Great moments are defined by great figures. The end of slavery, hard won and ultimately inevitable, did not end inequality. As students learn in this module, it was leaders like Frederick Douglass and Hiram Revels who helped to pave the way for more opportunities for black Americans in the fabric of social and political culture.</td>
<td>“Students will be able to…” Analyze the legal and social barriers that prevented most slaves from learning to read including literacy laws, threat of discipline from their masters, and a lack of schools or learning materials for slaves. Recognize Hiram Revels as the first African-American to serve in the US Senate. Evaluate the objection to Revels’ acceptance in the Senate based on the fact that he was not legally a US citizen until the passage of the 14th Amendment.</td>

<td>Jim Crow</td>
<td>Tuskegee Institute</td>
<td>Despite many barriers, by the early to mid-twentieth century, African Americans were finding new ways to flourish and demonstrate original and lasting contributions to American culture. In this module, students learn about the sites of resilience and creativity that served to strengthen and unify this country in moments of fissure.</td>
<td>“Students will be able to…” Identify Thurgood Marshall as the lead attorney who argued and won Brown v. Board of Education, and later the first African-American Supreme Court Justice. Identify Barbara Johns as a teenage girl who initiated a student protest that led to a lawsuit against school segregation, and went on to be part of the Brown v. Board of Education decision. Evaluate the impact of the Brown v. Board of Education decision on schools and other segregated facilities in the United States. Identify Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. as a pastor and civil rights leader who helped organize the Montgomery Bus Boycott, and went on to become one of the most well-known figures in American history.</td>
